Dry World

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, July 15.—As it is the duty of the commander of any military unit to "estimate the situation" before going into action, so are the leaders of the movement to "make the world dry for democracy" just now busy in taking the measure of the job in hand.

John Barlowe's future from pole to pole they hold, will depend largely upon the success or failure of prohibition in the United States, where a great people has pioneered by voting itself dry. If, within the next half decade, prohibition will have brought about the good results that the "dry" claim it will, then the other countries of the world will be more likely to adopt it than if it failed to do the evil that are charged to the use of "hooch." So does the United States become the great demonstration plant to prove the virtue or fallacy of prohibition.

Drys Staking Their All
Prohibitionists the world over are laying everything upon the results they expect will accrue in this country from the abolition of intoxicating drinks. Within the next few years the world will be pointing out to the people of "wet" countries how the United States has been bettered economically, socially, and civily by the elimination of booze. This will be their trump card in their fight for world-wide prohibition. The attack upon the world's liquor forces has already been launched.

The whole world will be dry by 1920, said one enthusiastic prohibitionist, who had a leading part in the successful campaign waged in this country. "Old John is doomed to a fate similar to that of Bill Hohenboken and Jess Willard. His days are numbered. In this country, folks laughed at us five years ago when we predicted that the United States would be dry by 1920. We exceeded our own expectations in putting them off a year earlier than the most undreamed-of prohibitionists had expected victory. Well, we do the same in our world-wide fight." Woodrow Wilson made the world safe for democracy and we're going to make it dry for democracy."

With this challenge to the "wets," the prohibitionists already have begun to organize and line up their supporters in every country in the world. The first international conference of "dry" men for the purpose of mapping out plans for the big campaign took place in this city recently when 37 nations were represented. Sixteen sent delegates direct to the conference while the other 21 were represented by missionaries or others located in this country.

Fund Raised To Fight Booze
The international prohibition organization will be known as "The World League Against Alcoholism, and will have permanent headquarters in Washington. At the initial conference of the league, it was decided to raise five million dollars in this country with which to begin the world-wide war on booze. Large sums will also be collected in other countries.

Leading prohibitionists in this country who actively worked for the cause are now that the country has become a veritable desert. Men and women who toured the United States in the interest of prohibition will be pressed in to foreign service. Numerous countries have called upon the Anti-Saloon League of America to supply speakers and also men to conduct the business end of the prohibition campaign. Edward C. Hinckley, national legislative superintendent of the league, has been invited to England, Scotland, and Ireland to open the campaign in those countries.

According to Mr. Hinckley, much of the ground work for world-wide prohibition has already been accomplished in a number of the countries.

"A few days ago we received a cablegram from Finland," he said, "bringing the good tidings that the newborn nation is starting out right by adopting prohibition. The prohibition law went into effect in Finland June 1, 1919."

Scotland Has Local Veto
"Scotland has what is called local which is somewhat similar to local option. The British parliament passed that law in 1912, but it does not become operative until 1920. We expect to start campaigning in Scotland next year and the prohibition forces are daily gaining strength there. We hope to do considerable work in Ireland within the next few years."

"We expect to have trouble in England, because the members of the house of lords hold office for life and it is not an easy matter to bring pressure to bear upon them as it is in this country with our national legislators. Then, I understand, number of the members of the house of lords have money to lose in breweries. This condition will tend to make our work all the harder, but such things as that will not daunt us in our fight."

"In France, Spain, and Italy we have been able to mobilize a great deal of sentiment in favor of total abstinence, but in these Latin countries we are going to have our hardest fight. For many centuries light wines have been used at the table just as we use beer today in this country. Then the making of wine is a very profitable industry in the Latin countries. We will have to educate the people to make some other use of the grapes and other fruits used in making wine. We have accomplished something in this direction in northern Italy, where a million dollar plant has been built to make a beverage from grapes by a new process. The new drink is made after the fashion of grape wine, containing 12 percent alcohol. It is placed on the market for sale. It is put through a process of de-alcoholization. All the alcohol is extracted but the wine retains its taste and flavor. The alcohol is sold for commercial purposes. I have been informed that a concern in California is contemplating erecting a similar plant."

Sweden Makes Brave Fight
"Sweden is making a brave fight for prohibition. There are a number of good temples (an international temperance organization) in the Swedish parliament. Norway has made considerable progress and there is a strong upward trend of prohibition in that country. Denmark has the unique distinction of publishing the only paper in the world that is devoted exclusively to prohibition. Lars Larsen-Ledet, the editor, has been advocating prohibition in his country and has taken over the volume of government in Russia. We have very little information of what is going on there, although the use of intoxicating drinks was prohibited by the former Czar, soon after Russia declared war upon Germany."

UNDERWOOD SAYS LEAGUE IS PRACTICAL STEP FOR WORLD PEACE

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS:

Washington, July 15.—Characterizing the league of nations as a practical step toward world peace involving the sacrifice of national sovereignty, Senator Underwood, democrat, urged in the senate today acceptance of the league covenant without amendment or reservation.

"The great causes of war," he said, "may be paraphrased in two words: national selfishness." Until the civilization of the world of other people, the inherent causes of war must continue to exist.

"I am not prepared to say that the adoption of the present treaty carries within itself the elimination of these causes of war, but I do say that within the folds of this treaty we find an agreement between the great nations of the world that probably will in the future carry the questions of national dispute, to a court of final arbitration and in many, if not most instances, avoid horrors and injustices which resulted in the arrest of your anarchists."

A general strike began at Caltanissetta, Sicily. The people there marched through the streets crying "vive soviet" and forced dealers in foodstuffs and other necessities to reduce prices 50 percent.

Apulia is an ancient town in south-ern Italy, northwest of Foggia.

League Not Super-Government

Washington, July 15.—No organization of the league is a super-government. No super-government could exist without power to maintain itself. Within itself the league has no power to levy taxes, and without revenue a government cannot long exist. The league has no power to raise armies and navies and without military forces, it cannot defend itself. With the right to withdraw, I feel that there is no need to fear the dangerous and unconstitutional powers of the fundamental principles and rights of the American people, therefore, I am willing to take it and try it and hope that from the seed that is planted today, in its fruition the final peace of the world may be found.

"I am more interested in the principles enunciated in the clauses relating to the league of nations than I am in the powers given to the government, on the test principles, as the future life of the league must depend.

An officer of the imperial Japanese navy recently called upon me and told me of the splendid headway that is being made by the 'antis' in Japan. ## MILLION SHEEP DROWNED IN FLOODS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) Buenos Aires, July 14. Government reports show that 1,000,000 sheep and 100,000 cattle have been drowned in floods in the southern part of Buenos Aires provinces. The railways and telegraphic communication have been interrupted and several sections completely isolated for more than a week. The floods were due to a month of the heaviest rainfall ever recorded here.

Over the Chilean side of Argentina there have been further heavy snowfalls along the trans Andine railway, causing new damage to the line. At one point a debris on the tracks has accumulated to a depth of 150 feet. The snowfall has been nearly continuous for a month and in some places is more than 25 feet deep.

A small party of Americans arrived here overland from Pacific seaport of Chile last night. They reported almost undamaged hardships during their week's journey.

TREES, BARNS, SILOS
DAMAGED IN STORM
AT WHITEWATER

White water, July 15.—A terrible wind and rain storm struck this city Monday afternoon, doing much damage to the shade trees and many parts of the city. At the Carling farm, just west of the city, the barn was blown down, one of the barns was wrecked and the viner tipped over.

At the Al Meuns farm, north of the barn, the silo was blown nearly out of the barn. Much grain and corn is laid flat.

Many people went to Jefferson Sunday to see the two leading teams of the Central League play ball and were somewhat disappointed at the demonstration, but pleased with the result.

The game was fine for seven innings, but then Whitewater connected with Bann and the slaughter was on. At the final count Whitewater had eleven scores, while Jefferson was unable to find Dodge, and had to be satisfied with a blank. The naked tie for first place was decided as the two tennis players had Sunday, one must take the lead.

WAR EXPENDITURES.
The Wall Street Journal sums up expenditures by the government during the war and after the war was practically over in a most interesting manner. It has to say the following on the subject:

"In the year ended June 30, 1919,
the government of the United States spent $15,035,624,689.47. This did not include loans to other countries.
Of the latter it may be said the permanent continuance of direct loans by government to foreign countries in peace time would carry with it both economic and political dangers too evident, immediate and deadly to call for analysis.

"Our own incomparable record of direct expenditure cuts, however, for heart searching and possibly heart breakings. In the preceding fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, this expenditure totaled $7,874,556,324, or ten times the amount thus disbursed
in the peak year of prosperity ended with June, 1917.

"We spent twice as much in the twelve months during which we were half-way out of the war as in the twelve months in which we were less than half-way in it. The going was one hundred percent better than the coming. The reluctance with which expenditure was curtailed long after everyone knew it was all over but the shouting was paralleled only by the unwillingness of the General commissary organization of the administration to lift a finger or release an ounce of food to relieve a cost problem here
more vicious in principle if less grievous in degree than in Rome or Milan.

"Our fighting cost in life is not calculable; its real money cost was modest. It has been the shouting which has cost and is costing. We are not bohemians. Every fourth of July orator said we are not a few days ago. But we have spent more real money in getting out of a war
we were not half-way in than any other belligerent.

"Our record for twelve months now happily over should in one respect gratify the national pride in doing big things. The Bolshevik government of Russia unreels ruble paper money
which comes in large unperforated rolls like newsprint. That government alone has surpassed our figures.
All others are far behind them."

OPPORTUNITY.

Opportunity at the College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin are set forth in a bulletin entitled
"Long and Middle Courses in Agriculture." It says in introducing the subject:

Opportunities at the College of Agriculture have been so great as at the present time. The war is at an end. The contending peoples have returned to peace pursuits facing new problems and new situations both civic and economic. It is not possible for a people to return to a pre-war basis
after such fundamental social and business changes. Methods and practices, sufficient before the war, will not meet present day needs. The immediate problem is one of recognizing and solving the new relationships.

"A new rural program is needed, adequate to meet the issues of the day.
Agriculture has felt the quickening influence of war's necessities. The government has recognized in no uncertain way the vital position the farmer occupies in the economic structure of the nation's life. If he is to continue to justify the faith that has been placed in him he must have a definite,
intelligent and well-directed policy
for the future.

"Trained young men are wanted
who have knowledge, vision, ideas, and ability. Men are needed who have the capacity to comprehend the situation, the ability to interpret the new social and economic factors, and the power to direct the energies of the people in making the necessary
civic, political, and business adjustments. Young men of intelligence are in demand. Responsible positions are unfilled today for lack of competent men to fill them. Never was there greater opportunity for agriculturally trained young men to serve their country in establishing a well-defined, practical agricultural policy. Underlined policies, haphazard plans and aims, makeshift methods of farming will not do. There must be an intelligent and far-sighted policy adopted.
The government is looking to the educational institutions as a vital and fruitful source of trained men and women who will be able to play a large part in determining the program for the development of the nation's agriculture.

"It is a wonderful opportunity for ambitious young men. The country needs leaders. Will you prepare yourself to meet the call?"

It begins to look as though the president made a slip when he told the senate committee on foreign relations that he would be pleased to appear before that body at any time it wished to have him discuss the peace treaty and league of nations. Certain republicans on the committee might take advantage of the promise and keep Mr. Wilson from his proposed speaking tour.

Secretary Tumulty declares that the relations between President Wilson and Senator Hitchcock are not strained. We are glad to learn that with Burleson ready to resign and Lansing coming right out and declaring the peace treaty is not all the president cracked it up to be.

One of these days Janesville is going to be in the same boat as Flint,

Michigan is now. Flint has to build 34 houses per day between now and January 1, 1920, in order to keep up with the demand for places to live for this growing population. It is estimated that 7,000 houses are needed
by that date.

Now bobs up the allegation that the government was compelled to pay practically $650 per 1,000 feet for spruce timber while private concerns
were able to obtain the same products at the rate of from $130 to $175 per 1,000 feet. Congressman Frear has been named chairman of a sub-committee to make an investigation of the alleged waste of money.

Secretary Lansing has come out with the frank statement that the peace treaty is not all that could be desired. He says it will do for the present, but that perhaps it will need fixing. It is a relief to find one member of the cabinet sensible enough to declare that President Wilson's ideas on the matter may not be wholly right.

The goose that laid the golden egg
is not in the same class with the West Salem hen that laid nine eggs in 45 minutes the other day while Prof.
Galpin of the university watched.
The owner of the hen can gather a lot of skeletoons as many per egg from those who have been getting about one egg per week from their hen-
fruit factories.

Senator Sherman of Illinois has asked in a resolution for information concerning the publicity methods used by various departments of the government. The senator could get a lot of interesting and accurate information concerning the waste of money in this direction by calling on almost any editor or copy desk man of any newspaper in the United States. Most of them have had to enlarge their waste basket in the last few months.

President Wilson has the hearty thanks of millions of workers in the economy who have an opportunity to spend an additional hour of daylight for recreation through his vetoing the agricultural bill which has the daylight saving clause attached.

Germany has the opportunity to pull herself out of the hole of despair
if she will just grasp the rope of opportunity extended by the allies. Assurance has been given the losers in the recent war that aid will be extended to them. All that is needed is plenty of common sense.

Is the reason we never see any of the old-fashioned clothing dummies standing in front of a store because the present-day fashions are so ridiculous that even a wooden dummy refuses to fuses to wear them?

THE CITY FURTHEREST SOUTH

Punta Arenas is the southernmost city in the world. This title does not carry with it any of the warmth suggested in the word south, for Punta Arenas is nearer to the south pole than to the tropics. Overcoats and furs are in order in Punta Arenas all the year round, even in January and February, which are summer months
there. Following the inverted calendar, that part of the globe, July and August bring to Punta Arenas enough snow, wind, and ice to leave no room for doubt that the soil ceases to be warm before it reaches this latitude.

The world's most southern city is in the Strait of Magellan, in Chile, which makes it 900 miles further south than Cape Town. Another city nearer the pole, Punta Arenas is a great fur trading and sheep raising center.
Sheep raising is especially appropriate in this locality for the wool on a sheep's back grows thicker and longer
in cold climates.

In appearance Punta Arenas is like an Alaskan mining town. It has electric lights and theaters and an unusually large quota of saloons. The town is at one time here attacked by gold fever, but it soon discovered that there was more money in trading and sheep raising than in gold mining in that part of the world. Still it has never quite lost its mining camp atmosphere.

A couple of hundred miles to the south of Punta Arenas there is still another town in Argentina, Tierra del Fuego, but this struggling little colony
has never risen up to contest the title

"Nearest to the Pole" held by prominent Punta Arenas. There is a limit beyond which a civilized man is at a hopeless disadvantage in his efforts to adapt himself to his surroundings. Punta Arenas seems to be located just within the southern dead line.

London—The cries of "there are more women than men in England" and
"what will we do with our surplus women?" seems to have been solved by the floods of offers of marriage that have poured into England from Canada. Women are needed out there, according to the prints of bachelors. Extracts from some of the letters received are as follows:

"If you have someone from 33 to 40, am 42, am not very good looking myself, but I have a heart like an ox."

"I am not particular about looks, but like character and amiability. I prefer one who weighs not more than 130 pounds, and should be satisfied with one of 120 pounds."

"I am a widower, 38 years old, do not drink, smoke, etc., or swear."

"I want to a man's heart is through his stomach," writes one philosophic man. "I've been 35 years
in America and have never tasted a

I want a woman who can give me
English cooking."

THE WISHING PLANE

BY WILLIS WINTER

The news that the robbers had entered the castle again, despite the heavy guard, made the king and queen look grave.

So the robbers had contented themselves with carrying away booty from the castle, but all realized that should the king or queen come upon them in their work, an instant might be made to kill either one or both.

Ladydear and Captain Brave thought, as the robbers might decide to carry away one of the children, that as the prince, of whom the king had spoken, had been kidnapped and held for ransom many years ago. Because they were guests at the king's home, the robbers might decide that they could make the king pay a big sum for the return of one of the children.

However, it seemed as if there was nothing to do but lay and wait again for the robbers the next night. The children were told not to ride away on their ponies or go out in the big purple on that day.

The king, the queen and even Ladydear and Captain Brave were too worried about the events of the past few nights to pay much attention to the

PARIS RUNS OUT OF BEDS FOR ITS GUESTS

CIVIL WAR "VETS" TO HOLD REUNION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, Sunday, July 15.—One million people will go sleepless in Paris to-night, three quarters of them from choice and the others because they have failed to obtain shelter.

At 9 o'clock this evening the railroad stations were still disgorging upon the already overcrowded city, thousands of belated arrivals, bearing loads of bread and victuals. Some visitors have decided to return to their provincial homes immediately and the St. Lazare station was crowded with the evening with disappointed visitors who were returning to their homes.

At 9 o'clock over on the boulevards was as dense as on an armistice night, the enthusiasm of November 11 was missing. Groups were dancing, singing and strutting hard, almost painfully, to enjoy themselves, but the majority of the people were merely looking on from mere curiosity. Perhaps the presence everywhere of legless, armless and blinded soldiers proved a deterrent to the enthusiasm of those who were returning to their homes.

It became evident today that sub-lieutenant Jean Navarre, the aviator, who was killed last Friday, had a contract with a large moving picture concern to fly under the aircar "Triomph" in a monoplane. The contract was so alluring that it reported another aviator has undertaken to fulfill it. Experts figure that the smallest airplane has a leeway of only five feet on each side under the aircar.

Even if an aviator should succeed he would be liable to six months jail sentence.

MISS EGAN GIVES ANNUAL REPORT OF LIBRARY WORK

At the annual meeting of the library board at the library Miss Mary Egan, librarian, read the following report.

"In spite of the fact that the library was closed for twenty-two days the circulation shows an increase of 2,986 books, $33 from the adult, 2,363 from the juvenile department. The total number of books circulated this year amounted to 71,850, 44,698 from the adult, 21,643 from the juvenile department, 5,600 from the schools. The most marked increase has been in the demand for technical books. Since January 1918, the circulation of these books has doubled.

"Many new technical books have been added to meet the demand. Besides new books this year, many old books have been replaced—attractive titles of Stevenson, Thackeray, Barrie and D. G. Mitchell were purchased.

The most important reference books purchased were the World Book for the children's room and a set of the new edition of the American. In all $20 books were added in the adult, 371 in the juvenile department.

Schools Co-operated.

"Grade teachers co-operated well with the librarians during the year. They not only encouraged the pupils to read, but the librarians took advantage of special privileges granted to teachers and drew many books helpful to them in the study of history and geography.

They also made use of the picture collection. Miss Emily Moeser, visited the graded schools twice during the year, urged the use of the library and gave applications to any children who were not registered.

I don't want the job postponed on me.

I want to come home to a round of joy.

And not to frighten a little boy.

"Wait till your Pa comes home!" Oh, dear!

What a dreadful threat for a boy to hear.

Yet never a boy of three or four

But has heard it a thousand times or more:

"Wait till your Pa comes home, my lad,

And see what you'll get for being bad."

"Wait till your Pa comes home, you scamp!

You've soiled the walls with your fingers damp,

You've tracked the floor with your muddy feet

And fought with the boy across the street;

You've torn your clothes and you look a sight;

But wait till your Pa comes home at tonight."

Now since I'm the Pa of that daily threat

Which paints me as black as a thing of jet.

I rise in protest right here to say:

I won't be used in so fierce a way:

No child of mine in the evening gloam

Shall be afraid of my coming home.

I want him waiting for me at night

With eyes that glisten with real delight:

When it's right that punished my boy

should be

I don't want the job postponed on me.

I want to come home to a round of joy.

And not to frighten a little boy.

"Wait till your Pa comes home!" Oh, dear!

What a dreadful threat for a boy to hear.

Yet that is ever a mother's way

Of saving herself from a bitter day;

And well she knows in the evening gloam

That she won't be hurt when I comes home.

and stories from standard books told to them with the idea of interesting the pupils in better reading.

Miss Grace Moat gave an interesting travel talk to these same pupils.

To illustrate her talk, pictures of Colorado, Montana and other parts of the west were shown; Indian curios were also exhibited.

Five Repairs Made.

"Only necessary repairs have been made on the building during the past year. An equipment and tool truck was purchased for the children's room.

This has proven a saving in the time of the librarian, and in the life of the books.

"Through the Hon. M. A. Cooper, an excellent wall map of the United States was added. This has been hung in the south basement room so that anyone may consult it.

The library has taken part in the publicity campaigns for the various war drives, by distribution leaflets in all of the books circulated.

"Hundreds of pamphlets on the preservation of food, gardening, child welfare, vocational training for the disabled soldiers, etc., have been distributed.

"One of the features of the reunion will be a regimentsal campfire to be built just before the roll call assembly at 4 o'clock. Mess will be served for the veterans by members of the W. R. C.

At 8 in the evening the veterans will meet at Memorial Hall in the capitol for a campfire and visit. The program is to be under the auspices of the Capital Mutual Club and Secretary of State Hull will preside.

The business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Pershing in London for Peace Celebration

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, July 15.—Gen. John Pershing arrived here with his staff, this afternoon, to take part in the peace celebration. He was met at Dover by Gen. Sir Henry S. Horne and a guard of honor.

Arriving at Victoria station General Pershing was welcomed by Col. Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for war, and officers representing Field Marshal Haig and Sir Henry H. Wilson, chief of the Imperial staff.

After an inspection of the guard of honor the party drove to the Carlton hotel, being warmly cheered by the crowds along the route which is already gay with decorations for the celebration of peace day.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Berlin, July 15.—Employees of trams have voted 10,643 to 6,545 for a continuation of the strike. ## Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl married her nevertheless. Now you and his father should help him in every way possible. Loyalty and a sense of responsibility should be expected of him. The girl is very young and undeveloped. With your help and love she can develop into a very beautiful woman. Help the young people in every way you can.

(2) After I have known a boy of my age for three or four months, I do not wish him to call me "Miss." Shall I tell him so?

THANKFUL CONSTANT READER.—(1) I would send the boy a card if I were you. He will appreciate the fact that you remember the occasion if you decide to give him a present, make it something small—a book for instance.

(2) I don't blame you for wanting the boy to drop the formality. At your age it would be all right if you called him by his first name. Then he would probably follow your example. When you are older wait for the man to ask permission to call you by your first name.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My son, who is only twenty years old now, enlisted when the United States went into the war.

At that time he was going with a young girl whom his father and I did not like. She is very silly and unattractive. Secretly my son married her and did not tell us anything about it until his return from France.

He is working now, but making a little salary to live on. Since he is of age, don't you think his father and I should have the marriage annulled? You can see what kind of a family hers is, because although she is only seventeen they favor the marriage. What can we do?

MOTHER.—Moral law should make it impossible for you to have the marriage annulled. Your son has married the girl unwisely perhaps, but he has

THE RENTED WEDDING.

"Hasn't seen you in ages, Ann. What's the latest news about?" grunted Nena. "Bad luck?"

"No, I didn't look glum. I'm going to be married!" It was, though. Still, perhaps, it was a solution. She looked into Nena's dark face consideringly.

"Sure they would! Why, they ain't worn but a few hours each time, and every time there has been a scribbled up and has cologne on and everything for a wedding. What's the sense buying a dress you'll only need once?" After the marriage you'd just lay it away in a box and cry over it and keep it years and years till it's all out of style and yellow and no good.

"Tell you, Ann, this world's too full of practical things to go sounding in sentiment over something like that. You know a good place in the city street where you can get grand dresses from $4 to $10. And a veil and slippers and stockings and everything complete. They'd fit the dress to you, and if it needs a little taking in or something, they do it. Like in the morning, and that afternoon they send it up by a boy in a box. All you got to do is to pay in advance and return the box the next afternoon when the boy comes for it. It's another thing while we're about it. You can rent a wedding cake, too—you know what I mean, not a cake to eat, but an ornament like. All white, with a girl and a man in wedding clothes on top, under big bell. It'll look lovely on the refreshment table, and only 50 cents!"

Annie was thinking hard.

"How much do you think the whole thing cost to you, think?"

"Oh," calculatingly, "you should get an outfit complete for about $9, good quality, too. If you bought the things it would cost you four or five times that. You can keep your job in the office a couple of weeks and pay for it, and you ain't out anything. Unless, of course," she added with a sly smile, "you're going to an extensive wedding trip!"

"It won't seem like a wedding at all if I have to wear a suit and hat. Do you think I'm foolish?" Annie asked wistfully.

"Foolish nothing!" exclaimed Nena. "Of course you want all the fixings that goes with it; I don't blame you. I would, too, if weddings were in my line. But you can have the cake."

Annie started. "What?"

"Why, you're silly! What do you suppose all the girls on the East Side do that work for their living? Don't they have nice weddings with white satin and veils and a wedding cake and everything?" They RENT out!

The idea of renting your wedding clothes was strange but a little repugnant to Annie. It did seem as if she should take a look at the girls who like the suit and the man who gave it to you. The thought of other girls having shared a garment so easily.

GOOD NEWS FOR ## BABIES.

Rah! Rah! Rah! Stonebrake! Boil! And then take—no—no—no Castor Oil!

The harp that makes the music for the sad words uttered here, has specialized on three refrains all seasons of the year: (1) Co-o-ko is Silent in the Very Catching Cold, (2) The Silent Part of Safety Camp Remains yet to be Told, (3) Who'd Give a Million Dollars for the Chance Once More to Take a Dose of Castor Oil like Mother Gave?

The leading article in the Health Bulletin of the North Carolina State Board of Health issued in May, 1919, is an editorial entitled "The Child as an Index of Our Civilization," urging that the one safe thing to do (in North Carolina) is to boil the milk before giving it to the baby, and asserting that even boiling kills the vitamins in the milk you can restore to it by the diet by feeding the baby a couple of tablespoons of orange or other fruit juice or the liquor in which cabbage or potatoes are cooked.

"What we shall teach in North Carolina," the editorial continues, is this: breast first, boiled milk next." The second article is entitled "The Care of the Newly Born Baby." It closes with this paragraph:

Something like a Purple Cow. Will white lardine applied to the neck cure a small goitre? (Mrs. A. L. C. F. C.)—There is much thing as white lardine. Liquid sold to credulous women under that name has no influence on goitre or anything else when locally applied.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Something like a Purple Cow. Will white lardine applied to the neck cure a small goitre? (Mrs. A. L. C. F. C.)—There is much thing as white lardine. Liquid sold to credulous women under that name has no influence on goitre or anything else when locally applied.

Cheirey Drinking.

I am thirteen years old and like coffee, but as you said coffee is harmful for young people I changed to a beverage made of chocolate and milk, but in particular it is used to adulterate coffee. My father also drinks several cups of chickory every day. We make it like coffee, and add milk and sugar. We like it. Is there any harm in using chickory this way as a beverage? (S. P. F.)

ANSWER—No.

Is it healthy for a girl 19 years old to ride a bicycle? (B. C. F.)

ANSWER—Bicycle riding is healthful for any girl if she is strong enough to walk without assistance.

Castor oil has been used for cen-

any mother to hear from him as soon as possible, so I went after the mail carrier's job and got it."

TOAD WITHOUT MOUTH.

London.—While working in the Nethseal Colliery, Burton, a miner named Sam Webster broke into a pocket and a live toad came rolling out. The creature is three inches long and a dirty brown color and with a mouth. Its eyes were open, but it was obvious that it could not see. The pocket was 800 feet below the surface. The toad has been sent to Birmingham University.

WHAT'S NEW IN SUMMER VEILINGS

BY ELOISE.

If you are tired of your suit hat or it is beginning to look too worn and faded and you are beginning to try to find some extra money to buy a new one, don't do it. Buy a veil instead. It may sound foolish, but try it and you will see what a pleasing surprise the result will be. Some of the newest veils which the summer has brought are indeed a smart companion for the worn hat. And now that, but now is the time that one should wear veils to protect the complexion from the dust and burning winds of the motor drive and the sunny rays which beat down upon the boxes at the horse races or the ball games or upon the galleries at the courts or on the links. It is now that one must wear a veil if one would attend the first evening function of the fall without worry about these wrinkles and that coat of tan. Here are two of the smartest new veils which have just been brought to market. The one on top is a square mesh with very delicate tracery which cannot be seen in the photograph so fine are the silken threads which are used. It covers the hat and hangs loosely over the face with about half-yard ends hanging down the back. It is a charming finish for madam's sat-in-clad figure. The novel veil pictured below is a Paris creation. It is a fine brown mesh with chevrons applied in eccentric designs. The veil is round and dropped over the hat, with the center of the veil at the center of the crown. It then falls in full folds about the shoulders.

SOME GOOD DRESSINGS.

Thousand Isle Dressing—One cup

of stewed tomatoes, three onions

chopped fine, one green pepper chopped fine. Place in a saucepan and cook until thick. Then strain and add one teaspoonful of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of paprika, one-half teaspoon of mustard, three-quarter

cup of salad oil, juice of one lemon,

two tablespoons of vinegar, juice of one-half orange, two tablespoons of raw onion, grated, three tablespoons of finely minced parsley. Shake until creamy and then use. This mixture will keep until used if kept in the refrigerator.

Hungarian Paprika Dressing—

Three-quarter cup of salad oil, one-quarter cup of vinegar, one tablespoon of paprika, one teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of mustard, one teaspoon sugar. Place in a small jar and then use.

Italian Dressing—One cup of salad

oil, four tablespoons of vinegar, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of paprika, three tablespoons of grated cheese. Place in a fruit jar and then shake the blend.

Roquefort Cheese Dressing—Place

two ounces of Roquefort cheese in a bowl, mash fine and add one-quarter

teaspoon of paprika, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-half cup of salad

oil, juice of one large lemon. Wash

a smooth paste before adding the oil and lemon juice.

English Dairy Cheese and Pimento

Cheese may be used to replace the Roquefort cheese.

To Keep Icing in Place, cut a strip

of paper a little wider than the cake

high and long enough to go around the cake and pin tight. Then ice it. When the icing has set, remove the pins and pull away the paper, leaving the cake clean.

To Bleach Handkerchiefs or small linen pieces add one teaspoonful of flock of tartar to every gallon of water. Let the articles stand in this a couple of hours and the result will be delightfully white linen.

To Keep Trousers Creased, put a little castile soap along the inside of the crease before pressing. Do not put on too much soap and do not make the dressing cloth too damp.

Stir Up the Cornmeal with cold water when making cornmeal mush

and there will be no lumps.

If the Sink or Bathtub bowl becomes clogged, put in a teaspoonful of chloride of lime and leave for an hour or two. This will eat away all obstructions and leave way clear for water to pass through.

To Save Dish Washing—You can use the washing of greasy dishes if you keep dripping water dishes, or the paper drinking cups will answer

the purpose. This is also an economy, as you can tear these containers, and

by holding the pieces over the heat

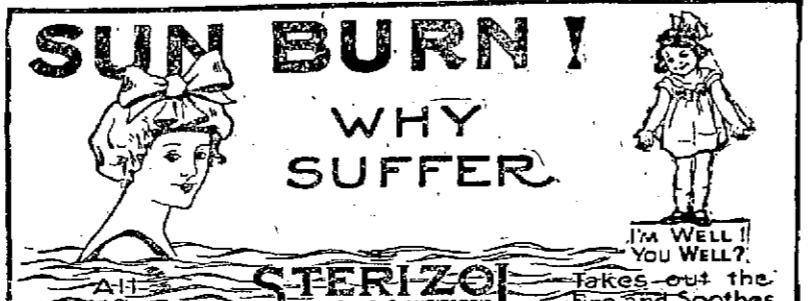

you can secure every particle of fat

for use, which is not the case with china dishes.

The Magnificent Ambersons

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

"She couldn't love Wilbur, could she?" Mrs. Foster demanded, with no challengers. "Well, it will all go to her children, and she'll ruin 'em!"

The prophetess proved to be mistaken in a single detail merely: except for that her foresight was accurate. The wedding was of Ambersonian magnificence, even to the floating oysters; and the Major's colossal present was a set of architect's designs for a house almost as elaborate and impressive as the Mansion, the house to be built in Amberson addition by the Major.

At midnight the bride was still being toasted in champagne, though she had departed upon her wedding journey at ten. Four days later the pair had returned to town, which promptness seemed fairly to demonstrate that Wilbur had indeed taken Isabel upon the carefulst little trip he could manage. According to every report she was from the start "a good wife to him," but here in a final detail the prophecy proved inaccurate. Wilbur and Isabel did not have children; they had only one.

"Only one," Mrs. Henry Franklin Foster admitted. "But I'd like to know if he isn't spoiled enough for a whole carload!" Again she found none to challenge her.

At the age of nine George Amberson Minifer, the Major's one grandchild, was a princeful terror, dreaded not only in Amberson addition but in many other quarters through which he galloped on his white pony. "By

Chicago, July 15.—Returns in the

In the breakaway market there was short selling, which led to rallies, trade was not heavy. Opening quotations,

Some settling resulted from the fact that sterling exchange had declined

MURPHY NOT DEPOSED AS MANAGER

By George McManus.

CONTINUES TO PILOT LOCAL TEAM

By M. A. C.

Manager Jimmie Murphy of the Janesville Lawrence team is not to be deposed and another manager put in his place. Contrary to reports that have been circulated about the city since the game at Footville on Sunday, Murphy will continue to lead the team unless he resigns which he says he has no intention of doing.

Manager Murphy has gathered about him after several weeks work, nine men who know how to play real baseball, and he said Sunday that he was going to stick and pilot the team to the finish of the season and do all he possibly could to give Janesville a real honest to goodness baseball team.

Denies Rumors

Reports and rumors were ripe about the city on Monday that Manager Murphy had left for parts unknown and "Ed" Winslow, local grocer, was to manage the team. Mr. Winslow emphatically denied the rumors this morning and said he knew absolutely nothing of the proposed change.

Mr. Murphy left for Chicago yesterday morning, where he will spend a few days on business, but will return according to a statement he issued before leaving, in ample time to put the Janes through a couple of stiff workouts before the big game with Footville on Sunday.

Janesville baseball bugs after years in the team for several years have set one and now it is up to them to come out and give the men their support. The team while not as classy as the Beloit Fairies is a mighty good aggregation and any team that can take the Footville nine into camp is worth going out and paying a few shekels to watch perform.

There are no other losing stars on the Janesville team, but there are nine men who know baseball and they are capable of giving any team an argument and all that is lacking is the backing of the fans, and that should be forthcoming at once.

Baseball is a great advertisement for any city and Janesville is already getting a reputation throughout the state as having a first class semi-pro state. It is the team's first year and fans who have been journeying to Beloit to watch the Fairbanks-Morse team perform should not expect Janesville to produce a team equal to the Fairies the first season.

Fans Want Team

A few short years ago the Fairies were nothing but a fairly good semi-pro team, but the fans of Beloit backed the team to the hilt. They packed the stand at every game. Donated money for the purchase of players until today they can, without any fear of contradiction, boast of one of the newest semi-pro teams in the United States.

Janesville has the same opportunity and if the fans will turn out and show the management that they will really back the baseball team it is safe to say that by next season or at the latest in 1921, Janesville will have a team that will be fully as powerful as the Beloit Fairies.

In Sam Lenquist, Janesville has a pitcher that is as good if not better than any pitcher the Beloit Fairies have on their staff. He has pitched winning ball every game since he donned a Jane uniform and he is just as anxious as Manager Murphy to give the Janesville fans a real team. Lenquist came to this city from Rockford and already he has demonstrated beyond any doubt that he can pitch baseball.

Next Sunday the strong Footville bunch headed by Manager Silverthorn will invade Janesville for the third game of the series, and if the fans of this city are desirous of watching a real game they will not have to travel via the interurban to Beloit next Sunday.

Both teams have won a game this season and the battle on Sunday promises to eclipse anything in baseball ever staged in Janesville before. Footville has a real organization and it required just 12 rounds last Sunday for the Janes to cop.

Footville is coming to Janesville fully prepared to put up a great argument. They are not desirous of losing to their city neighbors, and it can safely be predicted that the game scheduled for next Sunday will be a real baseball contest.

Manager Murphy said before leaving for Chicago that no changes would be made in the lineup for the Footville game and the same men who faced Silverthorn's crew last Sunday will again attempt to turn the trick in Janesville.

It is the first honest to goodness battle that the fans of Janesville have had an opportunity of viewing this season in Janesville, and whether Janesville is to have a baseball team will be determined by the crowd at the game on Sunday.

It's in your chance to get a real team in Janesville, and if you will turn out in sufficient numbers to prove to the management that you are sincere in your requests for a baseball team, why Janesville will soon be boasting of a champion aggregation.

ALL STAR NINE WILL PLAY BELOIT

A hot battle will be fought Sunday, when the Janesville All-Stars meet the Yates Machine company team, the fastest team in Beloit, outside of the Fairies. The game will be played at Beloit. Beloit's club has not yet announced when it is known that Jack Woods will pitch. So far this season the All-Stars have played 12 games, winning nine and losing three. They will play the Yates Machine company team a return game on the Samson field August third. The line-up for the All-Stars will be the same as ever, with the exception of the catcher. With the regular catcher was hurt in practice a week ago and he will be replaced by Crowley, who took his place Sunday.

Manager Jones of the Samson team and Manager Bick of the All-Stars are planning a twilight game, but the date has not been definitely set, but will probably be the latter part of next week or the first part of next.

The All-Stars will have a practice at the Samson field tonight at 6:30.

LOOKING FOR GAMES

M. Kelleher, manager of the Janesville Red Sox issued a challenge today to any local or out of town teams for games to be played in Janesville or outside of the city.

Mr. Kelleher said that his team is composed of local young men with three well known pitchers including Hageny, Thiede and Chilson. They play their home games on the Wadham diamond which they assert is as good as any baseball field in the city.

For games call or write M. Kelleher, 302 Riverside street.

ECKERT WILL PILOT SAMSON TRACTOR NINE

Those two straight defeats resulted in a decided shake-up in baseball doings down at the Samson Tractor company. The players, the shop and office fans are not disposed to give up yet to the extent of striking things around the organization for them. It is no doubt the material is on the Samson pay-roll to win the Industrial league honors.

Joseph Eckert was elected manager of the Samson nine at the session held by the players yesterday afternoon. The players wanted him for his knowledge of baseball, his executive ability and spirit displayed even with the team hitting the cups of defeat badly. J. E. Jones, former manager, was named as business manager and Harry Nelson will captain the nine.

According to the new schedule the Samson nine will attempt to play two "twilight" games each week with the industrial league game coming on Saturday. With Eckert at the helm the team took on a new lease of life and showed more baseball during a few hours romp on the diamond last night than has been its organization.

The new Samson diamond however, is soon doomed to pass away for the "progress of industry." Stakes have been laid out for the gigantic foundry which is soon to be started. The diamond will be moved to the corner of Industrial and Eastern avenues where there is ample ground for as good a baseball field as the present diamond. In event the Samson nine should gain speed this field will be converted into a creditable diamond with a modern grandstand "and all the fixings of a reg-u-lar park."

There is some report that if the Samson and Janesville Machine company can develop a team possessing strength enough to stand the record of good baseball, they will be taken to play other teams of the General Motors' competition this fall. The best talent of both nines is to be coomed over to represent the firm in this city for outside games.

One thing the Samson players are howling about is the failure of their official mascot, Jack Calquillo, to produce the luck. His absence at Saturday's game has not been adequately explained except that he had to obey "call to quarters" that night. But in event the Samson nine is not quitting but only further resolved to produce a winner.

Flags were absent.

Neenah.—Lieut. Col. John B. Schneller called the absence of flags in the downtown district July Fourth a "lack of patriotism" during an interview.

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

Connie Mack says he has picked up the most promising looking ball player that has broken into the American league since George Sisler arrived. Maurice Duran, his new first baseman, from the Columbia, S. D., of the South Atlantic league, is the man he boasts of.

"This boy cannot help making good," says the leader of the Athletics.

"All you have to do is to see him in action to appreciate him. He is about the size of Hal Chase, bats and throws left-handed and is wonderfully fast on the base."

Burns is a young collegian and his great playing created a sensation in the South Atlantic league. His work both offensively and defensively was so impressive that several big league clubs sent their scouts to Columbia to look at him. Mack, however, hustled down to Columbia and quickly put over the deal for the first baseman. It is said that Connie spent more money for Burns than he has paid for a player in a number of years.

In baseball reminiscences in the Yale University Graphic, Prof. William Lyon Phelps speaks of the catchers of the seventies, who used to stand at the plate without mask, shin-guards, chest and gloves. Silver Flint, of the Colorado nine, he says, was in a railway accident and fortunately escaped without a scratch.

He was standing by the edge of the track when a surgeon came along, and, looking at his hands, said: "My poor man, you'll have to have those fingers amputated." Flint, of course, laughed. His gurgle and twisted fingers were the natural result of years behind the bat without protective armor.

Prof. Phelps adds that the early masks afforded but slight protection. I saw Hubbard '93 Shoff receive a fall in the forehead which covered his face with blood. A piece of stick plaster was provided and the game went merrily on. As Prof. Phelps remarks, it required nerve to play behind the bat in those days.

Jose R. Capablanca, who is ar-club, as will be recalled, expelled both Dr. Emanuel Lasker, the world's chess champion, and Dr. Siegbert Tarrasch, the German champion, from honorary membership soon after the outbreak of the war.

Sam Crawford, the famous outfielder, formerly with the Detroit Tigers, is still hitting the ball. According to the latest figures Sam is leading the Pacific Coast league in batting with an average of .379. It has been Crawford's timely hitting that has been instrumental in putting the Los Angeles team in the lead. Many of Sam's hits have been for extra bases.

After shutting out the New York Yankees, 2 to 0, in the first game at the Polo grounds yesterday, Carl Mays of the Boston Red Sox failed in his "iron man" stunt when the Yankees batted him hard in the early innings of the second contest, winning by a score of 4 to 1. Mays was the first major league pitcher to twirl a double header this season.

The coming of the Australian lawn tennis players to the national singles and doubles tournament at Forest Hills in August will give enthusiasts a chance to see Lieut. Gerald L. Patterson, the latest of the Australian cracks, in action.

William T. Tilden, Jr., of Philadelphia, seems to be doing a kind of triumphal procession around the eastern section of the country winning tennis matches. In his various games he has beaten Kumagai, the Japanese expert, five times this year. He also has won from Murray in an exhibition match.
